A dynamic term bank

With TERMplus, a company can develop and secure quality assurance of its company-specific language. And that in its internal as well as in its external communication.

TERMplus is a dynamic Access-based database system to handle large quantities of language data. The system has been developed with a view to companies, institutions and professional translators wanting to systematize their terminological work. On a large or on a small scale. TERMplus is available with or without terminological glossaries covering specific areas.

TERMplus is tailored for terminological data and consists of terminological units, e.g:

In the main menu, the first thing to do is to choose source language and target language. Any search in the base is to be made in language pairs.

It is possible to work with the languages Danish, Swedish, Norwegian, English, German, French, Spanish, Italian and Russian.

Thus a search may give you a total terminological description of a term pair which, apart from the most important information on the term pair, also provides you with status information and general administrative information on the two languages you searched in.
